

Big Ben

The Elizabeth Tower Palace of Westminster Clock Tower, better known as Big Ben is the clock tower of the Palace of Westminster, which is currently used as the British Parliament. It is located northeast of the palace. This clock tower was built after the original Westminster Palace fire. Many people understand that Big Ben is the name of the clock tower of the British Parliament, but actually, Big Ben is the nickname for the largest bell, weighing 13,760 kg, which hangs in the vent above the clock face. There are a total of 5 bells, 4 of which will be beaten to a melody. Currently, the inside of the clock tower is not open to the public, except for those who live in England. Visits must be made through their local British Parliamentarians. For foreigners, it is not allowed to go up. The audience has to walk up 334 stairs because there is no elevator.

Admission: Not available

How to get there: Take the Underground Tube to Westminster Station.

The London Eye

The London Eye, also known as The Millennium Wheel is the tallest Ferris wheel in Europe, standing 135 meters (443 feet) tall and has become a popular tourist attraction and a huge tourist attraction in the United Kingdom. More than 3 million visitors a year which in the past was the tallest construction Ferris wheel in the world before being ousted from The Star of Nanchang Ferris wheel in China (160 meters) in May 2006. Subsequently, the position was acquired by Singapore Flyer in Singapore (165 meters) on February 11, 2008. However, the London Eye has retained the title of serving as "World's tallest one-sided steel frame Ferris wheel" (because the whole structure uses A-shaped steel trusses, the service uses only one side of the scaffold, unlike other general Ferris wheels that have two sides)

Admission: There are different types of admission tickets, from Standard Entry, Fast Track Ticket, Private Capsules, but generally Regular admission prices are £21.

You can book tickets online to save time. Or anyone who is not convenient can come to buy at The London Eye as well.

Opening hours: Open daily from 11:00 AM to 6:00 PM. Closed on Christmas Day

How to get there: Take the Underground Tube to Westminster Station.